DEATH OF THE EMPEROR.

He Breathed His Last at 11 O'clock Yesterday-His Son Takes the Title of William II. BERLIN, June 15 .- The Emperor died at 11 e'clock this morning.

A bulletin issued an hour before the Emperor died said that the Emperor had been lying for some time in a light slumber, broken by wakeful intervals, during which he showed distinet signs of ecasciousness. He gave no indication of suffering pain. His pulse and breathing were very weak. There had been no material change in his condition during the night. Al the members of the imperial family remained at the castle until after midnight. The Empress did not leave the castle, and at 4 o'clock resumed her watch at the bedside of the Emperor.

The death of the Emperor has caused intense excitement in this city. All the members of the goval family and the Ministers were present in the death chamber at the Friedrichskron Palace at Potsdam. A ministerial council was held just before the Emperor died. Prince Bismarek, who presided at the council, was much

At midnight the Emperor sat for half an hour in an arm-chair and took some nourishment. At 3 o'clock there was an alarming increase in his Majesty's weakness, and the relatives who had left the palace were telegraphed to return. At 10 o'clock this forenoon access to the palace was stopped. Count Von Stolberg-Wernigerode, court chamberlain, was the only Minister present at that hour. Chaplains Persius and Roagge were also in attendance.

The Emperor died without a struggle. He was surrounded by all the members of his fam-By. The remains now lie on the bed where the Emperor died. Hussars occupy the road from Friedrichskron Castle to Sans Souci. In the in-Grior of the eastle the Lehr battalion mounts guard under command of Major Nantzer.

The Bundesrath met at noon. Prince Bismarck formally announced the death of Emperor Frederick, and the accession to the throne of William, who takes the title of William II. Potsdam, June 15. - Some details are now becoming known in regard to the last hours of the Emperor. An hour after midnight the Empress Rismissed the members of the imperial family to their apartments, and prepared herself to pass the night watching in a room adjoining the sick chamber of the Emperor. Doctor Hovell shared in the vigil. At this time the Emperor was in full possession of his faculties. Shortly after 1 o'clock be wrote on a slip of paper the following question, which he handed to Doctor Hovell: "How is my pulse! Are you satisfied with it?" He then wrote something more, but retained the piece of paper in his hand after erasing the words. Between 2 and 3 o'clock his breathing became terribly labored, and some moments of struggle would occur, alternating with spasme and great distress as the hard fight with approaching death progressed. By this the strength of the dying Emperor was seen to be waning. As soon as it became evident that the end was near, the Empress caused the royal family to be summoned. At 8 o'clock all gath. ared around the bedside. Dr. Koegel, court ahaplain, who had been summoned by telegram from Ems, did not arrive in time to administer the last sacrament. Dr. Fersius therefore officiated in this ceremony. Pastor Roagge was also present in the death chamber. During the administering of the sacrament, and indeed even to within fifteen minutes before his death, the Emperor appeared to be quite conscious. He showed by the expression of his eyes and by the movements of his eyelids that he still recognized all who approached the bedside, relatives and others. A number of officials who had been summoned early in the morning reached the palace before death had taken place. Among chose present at the time the Emperor died were Count Von Stolberg-Wernigerode, General You Albedyll, Count Eulenberg, General Rauch, Count Radelin-Radelinski, General Pape and General Lindequist. Prince Bismarck did not go to Potsdam from Berlin until after the meet-

The Reichsanzeiger publishes a telegram from Baden stating that the dowager Empress Augusta, to whom the news of the dangerous durn which the Emperor's malady had taken had been carefully broken, immediately expressed a wish to return to Berlin. Her physicians, however, would not permit her to undertake the journey, her strength having been so overtaxed by recent events as to render her unable to stand the fatigue of the trip. She may re-

At 5:30 P. M. Prince Bismarck, all the members of the Ministry, the imperial aids-de-camp and the officers on duty at the palace were admitted to the chamber of death. The Emperor's body lies on the iron bedstead on which be died. It is enveloped in a white shroud, and only the upper half of the face is visible. It is now reported that the body will be interred at Friedsrichsruhe, beside that of Frederick IV. The Empress has withdrawn to her private apartments, and will see no one. It is not expected that the ascension to the throne of Willjam will be proclaimed to the nation until after the funeral of his father. In accordance with the wishes of the late Emperor and of the Empress, Emperor William II has ordered that the funeral be held Monday morning. The obsequies will be devoid of pomp and will be of a military character. Owing to the limited accommodations the attendance will necessarily be very small. It is understood a general period of mourning of six weeks will be proclaimed. All public amusements will be suspended until two days after the funeral. A touching scene occurred at the bedside this morning while the Emperor's life was passing away. Bismarck had called to bid his dying master a last farewell. The Emperor was thoroughly conscious, and taking the hand of the aged Chancellor in his own feeble grasp and motioning to the Empress to draw nearer, he took her hand and joined it with that of Bismarck, thus giving a silent and pathetic token of his desire for a reconciliation of all differences between his wife and the Prime Minister.

After the Emperor questioned Dr. Hovell regarding his pulse, this morning, his breathing gradually became fainter, till it was scarcely perceptible. At 9 o'clock a person who came digect from the bedside said: "All is over now; n a few hours the last struggle will be at an

The royal house and the German people have been twice bereaved within a short time. They deeply mourn the all too early decease of our beloved ruler.

MINISTRY OF STATE.

WASHINGTON, June 15 .- Intelligence of the death of Emperor Frederick III was received by Secretary Bayard this morning by a cable-gram from the United States Legation at Berlin. The Secretary immediately informed the President, and the following telegram was sent

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15, 1888.

Pendlet on, Minister, Berlin: The President desires you to make expression, through the Foreign Office, of the respectful sympathy felt throughout the United States for the German nation in the loss of their Emperor, who has at last yielded to death with such lofty courage and calm esignation to the Divine decree.

Reception of the News in Other Capitals. London, June 15 .-- Much sorrow is expressed at the death of the Emperor of Germany, who was very popular in this city. Flags are flying at half-mast, and the blinds of many houses are lowered. Numerous messages of condolence have been sent to the Prussian royal family. Immediately upon receipt of the intelligence of the Emperor's death Queen Victoria telegraphed a message of sympathy and sorrow to Empress

Mr. W. H. Smith, leader of the government, appounced this afternoon in the House of Commons the death of the Emperor Frederick. He said that he would move an address on Monday expressing the deep sorrow of the English nation for the calamity which has overtaken the royal family and the people of Germany.

The flags on the American and other legations are at half-mast, in consequence of the death of Emperor Frederick. The bells of Westminster Abbey were tolled this afternoon. When the news of the Emperor's death was received at the German embassy the blinds were drawn. The Prince of Wales will start for Berlin to-morrow evening. Mr. Gladstone and scores of other prominet persons called at the German embassy and left their cards.

In the House of Lords this afternoon Lord Salisbury announced the death of the Emperor of Germany. He said: "It is needless to say how deeply we grieve over the loss of one so jus.ly valued here and in Germany. The Queen has lost a son-in-law and Germany a most enlightened ruler. It will be your lordshins' desire to put on formal record the sympathy you feel for the afflicted relatives and for the nation whose loss we deplore. I will, therefore, on Monday, move an address to the Queen and an another to the dowager Empress Victoria.

VIENNA, June 15. - An order has been issued closing the royal theaters on account of the death of Emperor Frederick. ROME, June 15 .- Signor Crispi, the Prime Minister, announced the death of Emperor Frederick to the Chamber of Deputies. He made pathetic allusions to the dead ruler. B a unanimous vote the Chamber adjourned until Monday, out of respect for the late monarch. New York, June 15 .- The flags of the city hall and departments were not placed at halfmast to-day when the news of the demise of Emperor Frederick was received. Mayor Hewitt said he aid not feel justified in ordering them placed in that position.

Press Comment.

LONDON, June 15 .- The St. James Gazette says: "The Emperor was a true man, and the loss is very great. The new Emperor has his own ideas as to what to do or not to do for the safety of Germany, and these may have a certain importance in England. Emperor Frederick's death may suspend whatever warlike designs exist in Europe. Later, events will move more quickly, and England must promptly decide what part she means to play in certain con-

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "Emperor William, by his devotion to duty, untiring industry and firm grasp of a great idea showed bow a King could live. Emperor Frederick has shown the world how a King can die. No characters in history stand higher. Neither vainly lamented the darkness of the future, but earnestly executed whatever was possible to accomplish in his time."

full of expressions of grief at the Emperor's death. The Nord German Gazette says: "He was a true Hohenzollern. He leaves behind him in the rememberance of the hearts of his contemporaries, and as a beritage to future generations, the memory of a prince in whom the highest perfected virtues of noble manhood were as a crown of glory about his head, illuminating his whole being." Another article in the North German Gazette, referring to the new Emperor, William II, says: "A precious possession of the house of Honenzollern, handed down from father to son through many generationsnamely, an earnest feeling of duty and strict-ness in the performance of their high functions -has been present with the new Emperor in all his surroundings, indicating to him his path through life. He passed the years of youthful education in rigorous work, and thus prepared himself for the exalted and difficult duties of his princely office."

Paris June 15.-The Temps, after eulogizing the deceased, says: "The near future will show whether any of the benign influences which he spread around him during his too-short reign are destined to survive him.

The Journal des Debats, referring to the new Emperor, recalls his protest against the attributing of warlike intentions to him. It beheves that the protest was sincere, and was inspired by Prince Bismarck, and expresses the hope that William II will continue to accept the councils of the Chancellor. It concludes: "As long as Biemark lives, the peace of Europe will not be threatened by Germany more than it has been during the past ten weeks."

NEW YORK, June 15 .- Oswald Ottendorfer. of the Staats Zeitung, to-day expressed himself thus: "The death of Emperor Frederick will have very little influence in European affairs. His death has been expected for a considerable time, and he has been on the brink of the grave ever since he ascended the throne. His reign has been a short one. The situation in Germany will not be changed. The dead Emperor, I think, was even more popular with the masses than Emperor William. There is no compari-son to be made between the two. The old Emperor, during his life-time, did many great deeds and for these the people reverenced him; their love amounting to almost veneration. The young Emperor William, rumor says, favors a warlike policy. I cannot say whether this is true or not, but I don't look for any great change in German affairs. I think that Bismarck will take the first opportunity to show the world that the young Emperor has no warlike inclina-

Escaped from a Band of Lynchers.

UNION BRIDGE, Md., June 15 .- John B. Owens (colored) was taken from the jail here little after I o'clock this morning, by a band of twelve or fifteen colored men, all masked, and carried to the outskirts of the town, where he was strung up by the neck to the limb of a large oak tree. He motioned to be let down, and the rope was slackened so that he could speak. He made good use of the opportunity, and slipping through the rope, jumped away like a shot. The lynchers gave chase and fired several shots after him, but without effect. He has not yet been recaptured. Owens was arrested yesterday for assaulting another colored man, named Othia, and a colored girl, named Hollenberry. The motive was jealousy. The girl and Othia, who is blind, were on their way home, night before last, from this place, when they were overtaken by Owens, who asked the girl to go with him. She refused, and he then struck her in the face, breaking her jaw bone. Othis tried to defend her, but being blind, could do but little. Owens slashed him terribly all over his face and body with a razor. He also assaulted the girl, almost severing her ears. Both are very low, and Othia is not expected to live. Owens is the colored man who made an assault upon Miss Tyler, of this place, about six months ago and served a year in the penitentiary for the

The Troubles in Stevens County, Kausas. WICHITA, June 15 .- From the statement of Charles Rice, a farmer, who came in yesterday from Stevens county, the scene of the railroad and county-seat fight between the towns of Hugston and Woodsdale, it appears that the entire population is under arms. Mr. Rice says squads of armed and mounted citizens from both places patrol the country night and day for miles around. These gangs act as foraging parties and have but little respect for the property of others. On Monday night two of these patrols, belonging to different factions, met, and a conflict en-sued, during which a regular fusillade was kept up. It is not known whether any one was wounded, but three dead horses were found on the prairie the next morning. The situation is serious and the effect of the warfare will be felt long after the fight has ceased. Farmers are riding around armed instead of tilling their soil, and all crops are likely to fail in consequence. Governor Martin has commanded the militia here to be in readiness for marching orders at any time. It is boped that the mandate issued by the Supreme Court ordering the commission ers of Stevens county to recanvass the vote polled at the recent railroad bond election will have the effect of quieting matters.

A Good Appetite Is essential to good health; and at this season it is often lost, owing to the poverty or impurity of the blood, and the weakening effect of the changing season. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite, toning the digestion and giving strength to the whole system. Now is the time to "I had been troubled with pimples on my lower limbs, loss of aleep and appetite, and in fact was generally run down. After taking Hood's Sarsaparilla the pimples disappeared, my appetite was renewed, and I feel better in every respect." P. DEVELIN, S. E. corner Tenth and Buttonwood sts., Philadelphia. "I must say Hood's Sarsaparills is the best medicine I ever used. Last spring I had no appetite, and the least work I did fatigued me ever so much. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon felt as if I could do as much in a lay as I had formerly done in a week. My appet to is voracious." MRS. M. V. BAYARD, Atlantic City, N. J.
